

CONSPIRACY THEORY: The most dangerous conspiracy of Satan assaulted against the body of Christ at this present time EXPOSED for the benefit of the generation who will overcome it

by Jim Sayles

The initial conspiracy of Satan and his beast kingdom against God's initial covenant man, Adam, successfully ended mankind's automatic covenant inclusion in the kingdom of God.

Yet, this allowed God, the Father, to require mankind to face a test, the same test that Adam's sons, Cain and Able, faced.

In this God-ordained testing, Cain, the firstborn son, failed by offering the fruits of his own labor (religion without faith), while Able, the second born son overcame the testing through his obedient faith response, a blood sacrifice, representing the future blood sacrifice of the Lamb of God.

This prophetically mirrored a second event in which the first born, Israel failed by offering the fruits of their own labor (religious obedience without faith), while the second born son, the body of Christ was included by faith, not in their own works, but in the works of Jesus of Nazareth, the promised Messiah.

This same ordained testing faces this current generation today, the testing associated with things to come in our immediate future, in which the "wise virgins" will see and respond to the truth. But the "foolish virgins" will continue to believe and teach the lies, which will lead to the most tragic event in the history of mankind.

Satan, who can read scripture in its original languages, and is perfectly aware of the intent of God in Christ for this present generation, has prepared for this current time by setting up a massive, all-inclusive deception in both the organized church and the true "body of Christ" over a relatively long period of time.

This conspiracy began to be set up in the earliest days of Christianity forward in order to defeat as many as possible from fulfilling the Father's intent for the end time body of Christ, revealed in scripture to be the very generation reading this article.

We know that it is the Father's intent that mankind, beginning with Adam, and subsequently, this present generation, to face a test: believe and obey (worship) Him, or, by default, knowingly or unknowingly, worship Satan.

Those, today, who receive, believe, and respond by faith to the revelation that mankind has fallen from covenant status with the Father through sin, and that Jesus of Nazareth, Son of God and Son of man, was crucified for their sin, are regenerated by God's grace through their faith and included in the New Covenant written in the blood of Jesus Christ.

Those who do not, are not.

The original testing ends at the moment of faith. Yet, the testing of those who are incorporated into the spiritual body of Christ at the moment of original faith does not end. The testing of our obedient faith responses to the God's truth, His covenant promises in Christ, and His commands continues throughout our entire lives.

And, though none will lose their covenant status with God in Christ unless they reject their faith in Christ through chronic deafness to the still, small voice of Holy Spirit, they will experience consequences for unconfessed and unrepentant sin.

The consequences for unbelief by the present generation related to things to come in our immediate future as spoken by our Lord, Jesus Christ, and revealed in scripture, though, are tragic beyond measure as prophesied by the Lord Himself.

“Then they will deliver you...Christian believers... to tribulation,...(What? No pre-tribulation “rapture” escape)...and will kill you, and you will be hated by all nations because of My name....(only Christian believers have His name)...At that time many...of My people... will fall away...become apostate...and will ...subsequently...betray one another and hate one another. Many false prophets will arise...from among those who were once mine...and will mislead many. Because...spiritual... lawlessness is increased, most...of MY people’s agape...love will grow cold. But the one who endures to the end,...of the 6th seal events...he will be saved. Matthew 24:9-12 NASB (inserts are the author’s)

This passage alone reveals the lie of a pre-tribulation “rapture” escape that a large number of Christians believe and teach (none of whom teach the Lord's own words in Matthew 24 and 25).

Nor do they teach the rhema truth concerning the seven seals of Revelation or God's very specific calendar for the seven primary events of covenant redemption in Christ.

Yet, all of the earliest fathers of the body of Christ whose writings we have reflected the belief that God intended the end time body of Christ to not only face tribulation but to triumphantly and gloriously overcome the beast kingdom during the 3.5 years of 7th seal “great tribulation.”

Why, then, do a majority of protestant believers, especially believers who live in the United States of America, not only believe, but place their faith in a pre-tribulation escape from the God-ordained testing of our faith during the 4th-6th seal events as described in the book of Revelation?

Reason Number 1: They have accepted it as a “group-think” tradition of belief from various Christian authorities, whether denominational or personal.

Reason Number 2: Their fear inhibits a Spirit-guided examination of the subject.

Reason Number 3: They have fallen for, and even teach, Satan’s lies without spiritual discernment in this specific regard.

Satan’s Conspiracy Exposed:

I will necessarily present the historic development of Satan’s conspiracy against the end time body of Christ through the corrupt understanding of biblical scripture in brevity, but I urge the reader to fully confirm the truth for themselves. See Warning From Voices of the Past

We cannot escape the importance of the writings of the early church fathers, especially those prior to the First Council of Nicaea in A.D.325, who were heavily influenced by the oral tradition of the apostolic teachings. It is, therefore, important to recognize that these men all held to a historic pre-millennial view, in which the concept of a pre-tribulation “resurrection-rapture” of church only saints was inconceivable to them. It was not until the mid-nineteenth century when a Triad of elitist Plymouth Brethren members, John Nelson Darby, Cyrus Scofield, and Sir Robert Anderson, invented, introduced, and promoted the Zionist doctrine of Dispensationalism, which is the source of the specific doctrine of a pre-tribulation resurrection-"rapture" of church only saints.

Yet, one thing is certain. If the dispensational doctrine of a pre-tribulation resurrection-“rapture” of church only saints had surfaced in earlier days, it would have been universally exposed as heresy.

The Papacy Connection:

The first Council of Nicaea in A.D.325 introduced a significant amount of error into accepted church doctrine, not the least of which was the belief that the Pope was the “cleric of Christ,” the absolute authority for truth and doctrine in the earth with the power to “excommunicate” believers from their salvation in Christ.

This was defined by the Lord as the doctrine and practice of the “Nicolaitans.” This word literally means “power over the laity” or “power over the people” (priestly authority over people to the extent that in the earliest days of the Roman Catholic Church they burned believers at the stake for having a copy of the scriptures).

Modern Nicolaitan leaders in the organized church simply expel “rebellious” believers from the congregation or the denomination when they refuse to be blindly obedient to the leadership in both doctrine and practice. Some Christian leaders even claim that any disagreement with those in leadership positions are “cursed” by God.

Yet, if anyone is “in Christ” by faith they are not cursed by God. They may be disciplined for their own good if they remove themselves from the will of God. But they will not be “cursed.”

Those leaders in the body of Christ who knowingly or unknowingly continue this Nicolaitan doctrine and practice, hated and condemned by the Lord, are cooperating with Satan in his conspiracy against the body of Christ.

In 1517 Martin Luther, a German priest, pinned his “Ninety-Five Theses,” criticizing the Roman Catholic practice of indulgences, to the Archbishop’s door. Martin Luther’s intention was to influence the church to make changes, not to revolt against the Roman Catholic Church. But when Pope Leo X issued a papal decree condemning Luther’s teachings and Charles V, the holy Roman emperor, ordered Luther to recant, Luther refused and was excommunicated by the pope.

Excommunication by the Catholic church is, according to Catholic doctrine, the loss of one’s salvation, and other than burning at the stake for heresy or for having a copy of the scriptures, it is the highest degree of Nicolaitan punishment that the church could levy against a man at that time.

Luther’s response ultimately became what we now refer to as the Protestant Reformation, dividing the church between the Roman Catholic Church and those who protested Roman Catholic rule and doctrine.

The invention of the printing press aided Luther, who was joined by John Calvin and Ulrich Zwingli, as the Protestant Reformation spread rapidly throughout Europe.

Luther translated the New Testament into German, and he taught that the individual believer should receive the truth of God through scripture, rather than the papacy being the sole interpreter of scripture.

Luther also commissioned a series of woodcuts, published as a booklet, depicting the papacy as “Antichrist” and the Roman Catholic Church as “the whore of Babylon.”

Luther's claims formed what is now known as the Historicist view of apocalyptic prophecy with the "Antichrist" being the Roman Catholic papacy ruling both the religious and the secular world from the Nicene Council forward for 1260 years, which naturally included Pope Leo X and his successors.

Pope Paul III, the third Pope after Leo X, became known as the "Counter Reformation Pope," and in response to the massive exodus from the Roman Catholic Church and the widespread Reformation identification of the papacy as the "Antichrist" and the Roman Catholic Church as the "whore of Babylon," Pope Paul III, a strong supporter of the Jesuits, separately commissioned two men, Luis del Alcazar, a Jesuit priest and theologian, and Francisco Ribera, a Jesuit priest and theologian at the University of Salamanca, to publish works on biblical prophecy that would contradict the damaging Reformation claims.

Luis del Alcazar published a work establishing the Preterist view that the entirety of apocalyptic scriptures was fulfilled by the sacking of Jerusalem and destruction of the temple in 70 A.D., and this view identified Nero as the literal Antichrist.

Thus, if one adopted this view, the papacy and the Roman Catholic Church, could not possibly be identified as the Antichrist and the whore of Babylon.

Preterism, invented by Alcazar, persists to this day, and, like all false doctrine, it has morphed into various versions in response to exegetical criticism, with the most popular version being "Partial Preterism," claiming that all apocryphal prophecy has been fulfilled except for the second coming of Christ and His millennial reign.

Separately, Francisco Ribera published an exhaustive exegete of the Revelation of Jesus Christ in which he claimed that the first three chapters applied to the historic church under the rule of pagan (pre-Christian era) Rome, and the rest of Revelation applied to a future three and a half year period, immediately prior to the second coming of Christ, thus also eliminating the possibility that the Pope was Antichrist and the Roman Catholic Church the whore of Babylon.

In Ribera's version the apostasy was described as a falling away from the Catholic Church by those in the reformation movement.

Thus, between the two radically opposing views, Preterism and the futurist view that ultimately became known as Dispensationalism, the origin of the pre-tribulation “rapture” theory, the papacy and the Roman Catholic Church were exonerated, and in Ribera’s work, the Protestant Reformation was identified as the “apostasy.”

The plot and deceptions do not end there.

Another Jesuit priest, Manuel Lacunza, was commissioned by the papacy to expand on Ribera’s exegete, but under the pseudonym of Juan Josafat Ben-Ezra, a supposed converted Jewish rabbi. Thus, giving false external credence to the earlier works of Ribera.

Lacunza’s works were later discovered by Edward Irving, an effective, well known Protestant evangelist, and translated into English in 1827. And it was Lacunza’s heretical works, translated by Irving, that influenced John Nelson Darby, one of the founding fathers of the elitist Plymouth Brethren, as Darby’s dispensational theology and a pre-tribulation resurrection-“rapture” theory took shape.

Dr. Ice of Dallas Theological Seminary, the seedbed of modern dispensational doctrine, claims that Irving’s translation of Lacunza’s writings only added to and complimented Darby’s theological conclusions, but it was at the Powerscourt Prophecy Conference in 1832, five years after Irving’s translation of Lacunza’s works were published, that Darby revealed his pre-tribulation “rapture” theory, and by that time he was strongly influenced by Irving’s writings.

Another Plymouth Brethren member and contemporary of Darby’s, Cyrus Scofield, then published his “Scofield Reference Bible,” which could have been more aptly named, “The Dispensational Bible,” followed by another dispensational advocate, Charles Ryrie, and his “Ryrie Study Bible,” both of which have been widely used by evangelical seminary students who have naturally assumed the dispensational tradition without spiritual insight (i.e. a spiritual pandemic of error).

Thus, the seeds of error received by many have become “truth” to many, though it is in reality a doctrine of demons.

Sir Robert Anderson, a Scotland Yard detective and theologian, formed the third member of this founding Plymouth Brethren Triad of Dispensationalism when he published “The Coming Prince,” interpreting Daniel 9:24-27 as indicating that the Antichrist would sign a seven year treaty with Israel and many nations immediately after the removal of the church in a secret “rapture.”

Unfortunately for Sir Robert and all those who have believed his exegete, Daniel’s prophecy was sealed for the purpose of unsealing it for the generation who would literally experience it.

But thou, O Daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time of the end:... then at the time of the end...many shall run to and fro, and knowledge... about God's end time intent...shall be increased. Daniel 12:4 KJV (inserts are the author's)

Daniel's book was sealed from a revelatory understanding until the time of the end, but Sir Robert wrote his interpretation of Daniel 9:24-27 prior to the time of the end, demonstrating that his interpretation was not inspired and confirmed by the Spirit of truth.

However, the Zionist (Jewish predominance in the covenant intent of the Father) and Dispensational (multiple covenants of redemption) views are surprisingly still dominant among protestant Christianity, demonstrating the effectiveness of Satan's carefully planned conspiracy to rob the body of Christ of the truth so that he can create chaos, anger, and ultimately, apostasy, among Christian believers during the unexpected trouble.

Satan's purpose in this is demonstrated to be the defeat of a large number of the body of Christ whom the Lord prophesied would "fall away" from the faith in the trying times immediately ahead of us.

"Then they will deliver you...(Christian believers)...to tribulation, and will kill you, and you will be hated by all nations because of My name. ... (only Christian believers have His name)...At that time many...(of My people)...will fall away...(become apostate)...and will betray one another and hate one another. Many false prophets will arise and will mislead many. Because lawlessness is increased, most people's...(agape)...love will grow cold. But the one who endures to the end, he will be saved. Matthew 24:9-13 NASB (inserts are the author's)

It should be noted that an examination of the writings of the early church fathers prior to both the establishment of the Roman Catholic Church and the Protestant Reformation reveal that they ALL expected the church to be persecuted by the antichrist "man of sin" in the end times, not in some historic period prior to the end times.

What is then demonstrated is that pre-tribulation "rapture" doctrine was originated out of a deliberate deception by the papacy in contradiction of the protestant movement's accusations against the Roman Catholic Church.

It should also be noted that Dispensationalism as an entire doctrine, teaches that God has and will redeem mankind under various covenants, rather than one single covenant between the Father and the Son, and that God will restore His covenant promises to national, ethnic Israel after the church is "raptured," which is the antichrist denial that God “hath visited and redeemed His people.” (Luke 1:68-79)

Dispensationalism then supports the Zionist, Jewish supremacist view, that God’s primary covenant intent is still related to national, ethnic Israel. Yet, the promises made to Abraham were always, from before the foundation of the world intended only for THE “seed” of Abraham, Jesus of Nazareth, Son of David, and all those who are included in Him whether Jew or Gentile.

This intent has been perfectly identified by the great theologian and evangelist Charles Spurgeon in his book, “Jesus Christ, Immutable”:

“These who saw Christ's day before it came, had a great difference as to what they knew, and perhaps in the same measure a difference as to what they enjoyed while on earth meditating upon Christ; but they were all washed in the same blood, all redeemed with the same ransom price, and made members of the same body. Israel in the covenant of grace is not natural Israel, but all Believers in all ages.”

Dispensationalism was widely adopted by fundamentalist preachers in the early twentieth century, because the concept of a secret “rapture” of the church preached well, and the popular “Scofield Reference Bible” and “Ryrie Study Bible” supported that doctrine in their reference notes.

Dispensationalism has been supported and promoted more recently by Dr. John Walvoord, former president of Dallas Theological Seminary, and J. Dwight Pentecost, Professor Emeritus at Dallas Theological Seminary, and a longtime member of the Plymouth Brethren (founded by John N. Darby), both of whom espoused dispensational theology in its entirety, including a pre-tribulation “rapture.” Dr. Walvoord’s numerous books on eschatology from the dispensational viewpoint have heavily influenced the modern adoption of the many variations and distinctives of Dispensationalism among protestants, (the morphing and mutations of that theory induced by external criticism), and both his and J. Dwight Pentecost’s books on theology and eschatology are still being used to train seminary students at Dallas Theological Seminary and others.

Hal Lindsey’s book, “Late, Great Planet Earth,” further popularized Dispensational theology, and Lindsey predicted the specific date of the rapture based on his faulty, non-revelatory interpretation of the Lord’s allegorical statement, “From the fig tree learn its lesson: as soon as its branch becomes tender and puts out its leaves, you know that summer is near. So also when you see all these things...” (all the signs of the times the Lord had identified)... “you know that he is near.”

Lindsey then presumed, inaccurately, that the “lesson” of the fig tree was related to Israel’s return to national statehood on May 14, 1948, and that a generation was forty years. Therefore, the rapture would take place on May 14, 1988.

Chuck Smith made a similar prediction in 1981, and the members of his Costa Mesa Calvary Chapel gathered for one final service on New Year's Eve 1981. But at the stroke of midnight, they all went home, and many left Calvary Chapel permanently.

NASA engineer, Edgar Whisenant, then published a book titled, "88 Reasons Why the Rapture Will Occur on September 21, 1988."

In Whisenant's book-selling promotional tour he liked to make the statement that if his prediction was not true he should be stoned as a false prophet, but he never submitted himself to that stoning, and, after re-calculating a couple of times, he faded from the scene.

TBN promoted all of these predictions and held regular "Rapture-Ready" sessions, and, as these predictions failed one after another, TBN finally stopped holding "Rapture-Ready" sessions.

Yet, the error was never publicly discussed by TBN.

We have gracefully forgotten this non-revelatory foolishness, which, in Old Testament times would have been identified as "false prophecy," and those who preached false prophecies would have been stoned to death.

15 million gullible Christians bought Lindsey's book, and Lindsey still has a "prophecy" show on TBN. Chuck Smith, who never apologized for his false prophesying, still has a huge Calvary Chapel ministry, and just when it seemed the idiocy was losing its impetus, Tim LaHaye published the "Left Behind" series that has turned into a multi-million dollar industry for Tim and his co-author, rejuvenating the pre-tribulation "rapture" theory among Christians unfamiliar with the corrupt history and the scriptural denial of this doctrine.

Recently Grant Jeffrey, now deceased, promoted Dispensationalism on his TBN program, "Bible Prophecy Revealed," and Chuck Missler, "the Bible answer man," is the intellectual guru of the current proponents of Dispensationalism.

Missler, like all Dispensationalists, uses complex "proof texting" to defend his pre-trib rapture views, and his most common rebuke of those who dare question the Dispensational, pre-tribulations "rapture" theory, is, "We'll explain on the way up."

But the one who has gained the most from these false doctrines of Historicism, Preterism, and, particularly, Dispensationalism, is Satan, the father of lies and true author of these doctrines, and he has enjoyed a big, belly laugh as his deceptions during the 16th century struggle between the Roman Catholic Church and the Protestant Reformation have continued to bear much poisoned fruit just as he planned, ultimately rendering the modern church vulnerable to the escalating increase of even greater deception in these last days.

In all of this those who believe the pre-tribulation lie have completely ignored the fact that ALL of the disciples of Christ whose writings we have from the first century until the 19th century expected a time of testing for the body of Christ immediately preceding His return.

Pray then for a move and anointing of the Spirit of truth in these days, and pray that you will be included among the “wise virgins” who will respond to the Lord’s commands to reject false doctrine, false practices, and false interpretations of scripture, and will, instead, repent and respond only to His voice.

What we believe and teach NOW will determine the fate of many. Will you, then, rest in what you teach and prophesy, or will you seek the truth without compromise for the sake of the “wise”?

Daniel’s 70 weeks prophecy interpreted by Sir Robert Anderson, a Plymouth Brethren elder, and a detective made famous by his failed investigation of the Jack the Ripper murders, interpreted Daniel’s 70 weeks prophecy to support the popular Dispensational view of a pre-tribulation “rapture.”

But Daniel’s 70 Weeks prophecy, now unsealed by the Spirit of truth, clearly reveals a glorious future for the end time body of Christ who endure and persevere through the first six seals of Revelation.
